Customer Reviews

With their interactive, adventurous plots and multiple endings, these books have long been favorites of reluctant and enthusiastic readers alike. --Teaching K-8 Magazine

JAY LEIBOLD was born in Denver, Colorado. He has also written Sabotage, Grand Canyon Odyssey, Spy for George Washington, The Antimatter Formula, The Search for Aladdin's Lamp,

You Are a Millionaire, Beyond the Great Wall, Revenge of the Russian Ghost, Surf Monkeys, Ninja Cyborg, and Return of the Ninja for the Choose Your Own Adventure series.

My son and I love reading these books while he is in bed before he goes to sleep. I read to him, and he gets to pick the next step of the journey. He gets so excited when finding new paths or opening new doors to additional story lines. With a quick back story, you step write into the action and off on making the story yours. Sometimes our story ends within 5 minutes other times it could take 20 minutes or longer. All of these books are written in a way to quickly grab a child's (or adult's) attention and keep them there. With so many variations, it is like reading a new book every night. These are great gifts to give someone over a long weekend or over a vacation.

I was waxing nostalgic, one recent afternoon, when these books popped into mind. Ah, the halcyon days... I remembered being particularly fond of this one when I was a young tyke, and so I made a spontaneous purchase in a desperate bid to reclaim my lost childhood. The wait... was maddening. I crack open the pages. That new book smell. I get screwed by a corpse in an urn 6 pages in. Infinite rage. The End.

When I was a little girl we used to read these wide eyed until we reach the ending! Unsatisfied, I'd start all over again and do another story, and another story, until I've exhausted all possibilities. Sometimes, my sister would accuse me that I peek at the endings. Lol. That was 30 years ago. Now I bought it for my 6 year old son hoping he will catch the fervor I had for these books, I never wanted to put these books down!

I owned the first copy by the other artist, this one is illustrated by another artist still it captures the idea well enough. If you own this version it has more samurai qualities the original has hot inking. You may want both.

My six year old started out a bit confused with the choose your own ending, but once he figured it out he kind of enjoyed it. He got bored having to read the same beginning part every time he wanted to choose a different story line. He's six, so that's probably a typical response. He may like it more when he's 8.

I got this for my 7 year old nephew to encourage him to read. He's into ninjas so this was a perfect book and he love reading it.

Just as good as I remember the Choose Your Own Adventure books, and now we know that our youngest grandson finds them - at least this one - just as thrilling. It didn't hurt that ninjas were involved; the boy loves ninjas!

My fourth grade boys now love to read thanks to choose your own adventure
