What's Wrong With My Marijuana Plant?: A Cannabis Grower's Visual Guide To Easy Diagnosis And Organic Remedies

Synopsis

A simple step-by-step system for identifying, repairing, and preventing problems with marijuana plants. What's Wrong with My Marijuana Plant? is the first problem-solving book for marijuana growers with an effective and easy-to-use visual diagnostic system pioneered by Deardorff and Wadsworth for identifying pest, disease, and environmental problems by symptom. What are those rusty spots on your leaves? What bug is eating your buds? Why are your sativa sprouts covered in fuzz? Find out fast AND learn how to fix it! This book contains all-organic solutions (vitally important to protect your health, the health of your plants, and the environment) plus best growing practices to avoid problems before they start. Written in easily understandable, non-technical language and heavily illustrated with precise photography to allow rapid and accurate diagnosis, this is an essential resource for beginning and experienced growers alike.

Customer Reviews

Praise for the authors' previous books: "This is one of the best books I've seen for guiding the gardener through the maze of maladies that can visit garden plants." —Washington Post "An invaluable guide." —Publishers Weekly "Attractive, comprehensive, authoritative, and easy-to-use." —Library Journal "Beyond comprehensive yet straightforward....an essential resource." —Booklist "The information is concise....The illustrations are clear, the remedies organic." —New York Times "This book makes diagnosing a plant problem super easy. I have never seen anything quite like it." —Louisville

Sentinel-News "It's like having a Master Gardener at your beck and call, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, any season of the year." "About.com" "What impressed us most is that the authors take an entirely organic approach." "Sunset magazine" "A phenomenal resource." "Minneapolis Star Tribune"

DAVID DEARDORFF is a plant pathologist; his wife, KATHRYN WADSWORTH, is a writer and naturalist. Together, they have authored four gardening books. What's Wrong With My Plant? received the Silver Achievement award for best technical garden book from the Garden Writers of America and has been translated into French and Korean. They travel extensively to hold popular workshops and lectures across the country and are frequent guests on gardening radio and TV shows including Martha Stewart Living Radio, Joe Lamp's Growing a Greener World, Ken Druse's Real Dirt, and Ciscoe Morris's Gardening with Ciscoe.

This is a remarkable handbook for those wanting to grow healthy cannabis uncontaminated by pesticides and other toxins. It is the 5th in Deardorff and Wadsworth's popular series of garden books that use a visual system for solving plant challenges. You don't need to know the name of a single pest or disease to find out just what to do to help. The authors outdid themselves with the streamlined design of this grower's handbook, and Ten Speed Press produced it as a high quality edition that can stand up to the regular use you'll put your copy to. Wherever you see a problem on your plant, you will find clear photos and simple descriptions of those symptoms in the book with various solutions for each—right there on the same page. Every solution refers to specific page numbers for the exact details you need to remedy the problem; fixes like biological control, management of light, water, temperature, and humidity, as well as organic chemical controls. I think any cannabis grower will appreciate this essential manual. So if you, or anyone you know, wants to grow their own clean and safe medical marijuana this is the guide to help them succeed—from prevention to control measures. There's even info on pruning and propagation.
