Melissa J. Morgan started going to sleep away camp when she was eight years old and didn't stop until her first job after grad school refused her request for eight weeks of summer vacation. She's since quit that job to become a full-time author. The only reason she didn't go back to camp is that her husband refused to join her. Melissa lives in New York with him and Bugle, their Chocolate Lab.

Excellent

Good reading, bought this for my child and they just love it. As with all the other books in the series, good reading for children with hidden lessons along the way

My daughter asked to get this book on the Kindle Fire and when she finished it (within an hour) she told me it was really quite boring. It was OK because it was cheap and her siblings can read it. It was a very easy read too.

This book was good, but the other books in these series are much better I rate it 3 stars but normally I rate the books 4 stars great series. my 13 yr old daughter loves it

Review written by my daughter who read the book: I think this book was one of the best in the series. It teaches kids about going green to help out the planet, but it also tells a heartwarming story about friendships of people with from different places! Most of the books are about the main girls and what happens at camp, but this one is different. The girls learn all about going green and they have a new camper - the presidents daughter comes to camp for the first time! Of course, the presidents daughter is used to having people do things for her and getting what she wants, but the girls then teach her the true meaning of friendship and how to do things for herself. That's something that makes this an amazing story to read! I think everyone should read these books to see what I mean!
