The Gold Cache (1917)

Synopsis

J. W. Schultz (1859–1947) was an author, explorer, and historian known for his historical writings of the Blackfoot Indians in the late 1800s, when he lived among them as a fur trader. In 1907, Schultz published My Life as an Indian, the first of many future writings about the Blackfeet that he would produce over the next thirty years. Schultz lived in Browning, Montana. Adventures of a youth and some Blackfoot Indians who travel far in search of buried gold. The dangers of the way and hostile Indians add excitement. The ever potent lure of buried treasure carries the hero into a series of dangerous experiences with the Indians leading to the finding of gold. The characters in this book are old favorites with Mr. Schultz's readers. Lone Chief shows young Tom Fox twenty dollar gold pieces, which he calls buttons, saying that he found a thousand of these on a trip through the South country. He could not carry them so he buried the rest. The adventures of Tom and his pals in search of the treasure makes a thrilling story. There are striking illustrations. This book originally published by Houghton Mifflin in 1917 has been reformatted for the Kindle and may contain an occasional defect from the original publication or from the reformatting.

Another great adventure when such things were still possible,a wonderful insight to life around the beginning of the twentieth century.

Typical young man finding his way in the big world story. I found the history and description of the landscape to be intriguing. Very interesting portrayal of pioneers in the old west.

A great true story about searching for buried gold. I highly recommend this book to any interested in Indian stories.
