Customer Reviews

CODY Macfie is an experienced mason who makes his home in the mountains of western North Carolina. He runs two businesses, Steep Creek Stoneworks, which specializes in stone construction, and French Broad Stone Supply, a building- and landscape-stone materials company. With all that to oversee, Cody still finds time to write about his craft. His work has appeared in publications such as Fine Homebuilding magazine, and he's the author of Getting Started with Mortared Stonework.

Contrary to what tells you, you will not learn how to build a stone fireplace with this book. You will learn how to stick veneer on the front of a fireplace that was completely built and sheeted already. The projects that are covered are done well and there are time-saving tips from the pro's as you would expect from the publisher.

Good informative book. Basics for a newby, but enough detail and advanced techniques to keep an old hand interested.
